UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

COLONEL BRIAN J. GAMBLE

Col Brian J. Gamble is the Senior Materiel Leader for the Multi-Domain Awareness Division in the Capability Integration Directorate of SMC's Portfolio Architect Office in Los Angeles CA. He is responsible for mission area integration and weapon system architecting in the remote sensing capability areas of missile warning and tracking, environmental monitoring, and tactical intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (ISR). He is also responsible for leading space acquisition integration into the Advanced Battle Management System (ABMS). Prior to his current assignment, he was the Weapons Division Chief in the Global Power Programs Directorate, Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Acquisition, Technology & Logistics, Headquarters U.S. Air Force, Arlington, Virginia. He was responsible for the acquisition planning, programming, budgeting and execution of Air Force air-to-ground munitions, air-to-air weapons and special programs.

Colonel Gamble received his commission from the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps upon his graduation from the University of Notre Dame in May 1998. He has served as an engineer on the C-17 Aircrew Training System, a technical engineer on the Intercontinental Ballistic Missile system, a research engineer at the Air Force Research Laboratory, and as an Air Staff acquisition Program Element Monitor. He was a Materiel Leader in the Air Force Nuclear Weapons Center, responsible for program management and acquisition of joint DoD-DOE nuclear air-delivered modernization programs including the B61-12 bomb and the W80-4 Long Range Standoff Missile. He has interagency experience in DOE laboratories and the Countering Weapons of Mass Destruction office in DHS. Colonel Gamble also deployed to Combined Joint Task Force, Horn of Africa in support of the anti-terrorism mission in Djibouti Africa.
